President & CEO,
Temecula Valley Chamber of Commerce

Brooke Nunn is the President and Chief Executive Officer of the Temecula Valley Chamber of Commerce, a member-driven nonprofit representing nearly 1,000 businesses and hosting close to 200 programs and events annually. With a social media reach of nearly 40K and an average of 14K monthly website visitors, the Chamber serves as a leading voice for businesses in the region and a trusted partner in economic growth.

Brooke's career with the Chamber spans over 15 years, beginning as Events Coordinator and advancing through leadership roles that prepared her for the CEO position. A graduate of the Western Association of Chamber Executives (WACE) Academy and the Fashion Institute of Design and Merchandising (FIDM), she brings both strategic expertise and creativity to her leadership.

She is especially committed to workforce development, a priority recognized in 2025 when the Chamber was named Outstanding Industry Partner of the Year by Mt. San Jacinto College. Through initiatives such as internships, education summits, and legislative advocacy, Brooke ensures that the Chamber continues to prepare the region for long-term economic success.

Brooke also serves as a commissioner on the City of Temecula's Old Town Local Advisory Committee and is an active member of the Southern California Wine Country Economic Development Coalition, MTG, Professional Women's Roundtable, the California Chamber of Commerce, and the U.S. Chamber of Commerce. She values the Chamber's strong partnerships with the City of Temecula, Visit Temecula Valley, the Temecula Valley Winegrowers Association, and the Riverside County Office of Economic Development, as well as its legislative work with the Southwest California Legislative Council.

Outside of her professional life, Brooke enjoys watching movies, attending car shows, and discovering new foods. She is deeply passionate about serving her community and takes pride in leading an organization with integrity, deep roots, and a strong vision for the future.
